

A. Arnold World Class Relocation Announces ProMover Certification

A. Arnold World Class Relocation, a full-service moving company, is proud to announce its official ProMover certification by the professional moving industry's trade group, the American Moving & Storage Association (AMSA).

Louisville, Kentucky (PRWEB) July 3, 2009 -- A. Arnold World Class Relocation, a full-service moving company, is proud to announce its official ProMover certification by the professional moving industry's trade group, the American Moving & Storage Association \(AMSA\).

Since 1936, AMSA has been providing exceptional support for professional movers and their consumers both domestically and internationally. ProMover certification is awarded only after the candidate has satisfied a thorough operational review and has agreed to abide by a set of honorable business practices, the AMSA Code of Ethics.

" This certification is another benchmark in our long-standing commitment to total customer satisfaction," notes Rick Russell, President of A. Arnold World Class Relocation. " Becoming a ProMover is a statement to our customers and to our industry that we intend to continue our tradition of exceptional service."

ProMover certification authorizes A. Arnold World Class Relocation to display the bold capital " M" logo that is the AMSA mark of quality on all advertising and marketing materials, as well as on its Web site.

" A. Arnold World Class Relocation is among the latest to earn this sought-after designation," said Linda Bauer Darr, AMSA president & CEO. " I'm delighted to have another member who has successfully met all of the qualifications and become part of the elite ProMover family of movers. Consumers in Louisville can now know in advance they're hiring a quality, reliable moving company."

AMSA is based in Washington, D.C. and represents over 3,500 members.
